≡ FANTASY TALES: JUNE 30 - JULY 6 ≡

This week we explore the light and the dark side of fantastical storytelling. Author Neil Gaiman leads the pack with film adaptations of his works "Coraline" and "Stardust." Guillermo del Toro's original creation "Pan's Labyrinth" can certainly hold its own. Lastly the 90's classic "The Pagemaster" reminds us of a simpler time - a time before Macaulay Culkin dedicated his life to a pizza-themed band.

CORALINE (2009)

Coraline initially rejoices when she discovers an exciting parallel universe, but she soon learns the grass isn't always greener on the other side.

PAN'S LABYRINTH (2006)

In post-Civil War Spain, Ofelia discovers she is a lost princess, and must complete three dangerous tasks to claim immortality.

STARDUST (2007)

In the magical kingdom of Stormhold three greedy princes, an evil witch, and a lovesick boy all race against time to obtain a newly fallen star.

THE PAGEMASTER (1994)

A boy lacking in courage, is sent on a daring adventure in a land populated with famous literary characters.

≡ DANCE WEEK: JULY 7 - 13 ≡

If we've learned anything from pop music, you can dance in various ways: in the dark, on your own, in the street, on the ceiling, in the moonlight, in the sheets, cheek to cheek. You can be a private dancer, a tiny dancer, a dancing queen. The list goes on! We hope to get your toe tappin' and your feet loose with "Center Stage," "Billy Elliot," "Black Swan" and the 30th Anniversary of "Dirty Dancing."

BLACK SWAN (2010)

A psychologically twisted battle for the lead role in Swan Lake begins when two dancers are forced to share the part.

BILLY ELLIOT (2000)

Billy is a coal-miner's son in Northern England whose life is forever changed when he stumbles upon a dance class instead of boxing lessons.

CENTER STAGE (2000)

Bright-eyed dancers in a prestigious academy must overcome strict body standards and romantic triangles to make their dance dreams come true.

DIRTY DANCING (1987)

We will put you in the corner if you don't already love this film about teenage self-discovery and dancing dirty to the oldies.

≡ I'M ON A BOAT!: JULY 14 - 20 ≡

You may not be on a boat this week, but you can wear your flippie-floppies to the theater and take a good hard look at these movies featuring boats. Get old school with Bogart and Hepburn in "The African Queen." "Jaws" is the summertime classic you won't want to miss (including a special RiffTrax showing). The astoundingly beautiful "Life of Pi" will give you plenty to discuss long after you've left the theater.

JAWS (1975)

The denizens of Amity Island are gearing up for the summer tourist season. So is the great white shark prowling the ocean waters.

LIFE OF PI (2012)

"Pi" Patel tells his incredible journey of being lost at sea with the only other survivor - a Bengal tiger from his family's zoo.

THE AFRICAN QUEEN (1951)

A missionary spinster and an alcoholic riverboat captain take on the Germans in WWI. What could go wrong?

≡ FILM NOIR: JULY 21 - 27 ≡

Take a break from the glaring sun and the humid city streets with cool classic films of the film noir variety. "The Big Sleep," "Kiss Me Deadly," "Double Indemnity," and "Panique" serve up the most hard-boiled detectives and grittiest dames you could ask for. Light a cigarette and trust no one.

DOUBLE INDEMNITY (1944)

Insurance salesman Walter gets roped into a murderous scheme when he falls for Phyllis who is intent on killing her husband. Insurance fraud has never been so sexy!

KISS ME DEADLY (1955)

P.I. Mike Hammer offers a ride to a mysterious woman setting off a sequence of events involving murder, stolen identities, and "the great whatsit."

PANIQUE (1946)

Alice will do anything for her lover Alfred even if it means setting up another man to take the fall for a brutal murder.

THE BIG SLEEP (1946)

P.I. Philip Marlowe is stuck with a convoluted case of missing persons, gambling debts, and one dangerously alluring blonde bombshell.
